Helping hands help others

“There’s no end to the work to be done, and I work every day making shutters, doors, gates, and grills,” says Mohamad Siraj. “I’m making money, taking care of my family, and looking at where we can build a house.”

Siraj is one of more than 1,700 survivors of the October 2005 northern Pakistan earthquake who has started a new life and livelihood thanks to Church World Service-supported vocational training.

A farmer before, the quake left him and his family in a camp for the displaced, Siraj jumped at the opportunity to join the CWS training program. Today, Mohamad Siraj is a welder, with his own shop. His family’s future is bright.

When disaster strikes, Church World Service responds immediately, in a holistic manner. In Pakistan, for example, our immediate response included shelter kits, with a tent and four blankets in each, and food packages. Our commitment is always to stand with people in the long process of recovery and rehabilitation — to be there when the others have gone home. And that means providing tools like livelihood training, basic health care and sanitation, psychosocial care, wells and water systems — the tools for a better tomorrow.

So people in need can help themselves...

Church World Service provides tools, blankets, and other assistance.

Through the CWS Tools & Blankets Program, you and your congregation or group can make a world of difference for people in need in some 80 countries and the U.S. You can help provide the right tool at the right time!

$25 can provide five warm blankets for a family left homeless by a hurricane or other disaster

$120 can enable three women to attend a literacy class for a year and change their lives forever

$200 can provide a struggling farm family with a water buffalo — a “living tractor” to significantly increase their food production and carry their produce to market

$250 can provide a sewing machine to a young mother learning to support her family

$5,000 can drill a deep water well, protection against drought for a village

Looking for a unique gift for someone? How about some baby chicks? A water buffalo? A well? Give a gift that makes a real difference. Just visit www.cwsbestgifts.org It's great one-stop shopping for the person who has everything. Or for the giver looking for a great alternative.
